

Rainbow River: BBC 40/80 Track

This topical computer game challenges the user to clean up a polluted river in order to bring back the rainbow trout - a symbol of unpolluted water. Three pieces of information are provided: a read-out of the scientific measurements of the river; a view of the storage tanks containing sewage and factory waste; and a view of the nearby reservoir. The user has to select levels for waste input and water output so as to allow continued removal of waste, as well as the return of the rainbow trout.
