

Fighting for the Rain Forest (African Issues)

Do small wars in Africa manifest a new barbarism? What appears as random, anarchic violence is no such thing. The terrifying military methods of Sierra Leonean soldiers may not fit conventional western models of warfare, but they are rational and effective nonetheless. The war must be understood partly as a performance, in which techniques of terror compensate for lack of equipment. BR> PAUL RICHARDS is Professor of Technology and Agrarian Development, Wageningen University Published in association with the International African Institute
