

Media Perspectives on Intelligent Design and Evolution

This nonideological analysis of the debate regarding intelligent design and evolution reveals the intentional distortions and unseen influences of modern media that skew the public's view of world events and controversial issues. Provides brief biographical profiles on some of the key individuals in the debate regarding evolution and intelligent design, including philosopher William Dembski of Seattle's Discovery Institute and former Harvard paleontologist Stephen J. Gould. Presents primary documents and photographs that support the text, as well as a timeline of the intelligent design/evolution debate. Includes an annotated bibliography for suggestions on further reading.
