

POLITICAL MODERNIZATION AND KENYAS INDEPENDENCE ERA RATIONALIZATION OF MODERNITY

The research redresses the role of tradition in modernization, and provides a platform on which modernizing elements can be manifested. This is a age-old development cry for building on indigenous strengths rather than destroying its foundations. The communitarian ideal and the underlying principles associated with accountability are best suited to spur modernization in Africa. As a common denominator communitarian accountability is evident in all the ethnicities in Africa. Communitarian accountability is suited to the traditional mode of life and can be adapted to the political and social conditions prevailing in the modern nation. The failure to maintain African based values such as mutual responsibility and the extension of the African family spirit to the nation as a whole has subjected African nations to the ills and vices of an alien system for which the they are morally indefensible.
