

The Knowledge of Life: The Origins and Early History of the Mandaeans and Their Relations to the Sabians of the Quran and to the Harranians

This third volume in the new series of supplements to the Journal of Semitic Studies is a survey of the historical and religious problems involved in the interconnection between the Sabians of the Quran, the Mandaeans of southern Iraq, and the Sabians of Harran in northern Mesopotamia. It offers an important examination of traditional assertions by some that the Mandaeans and by others that the Harranians should be recognized as the Sabians of the Quran, the people granted protected status in Islamic law.
